

The main aim of the project is to collect live data from industry related projects and get the data insights such as efficiency and status of completion of project from it. The project is divided into four parts. First part consist of assigning the task to the engineers and storing the data into the database, second is update on the status of the respective task, third part is to visualize & monitor the project status, and the last part is to analyse the data collected for betterment of the industry efficiency.

DESIGN

